YOUR REGION

Your region is famous for its ski resorts and popular with mountain sliding sports and walking enthusiasts. However, your facilities require a lot of energy for going up and down your mountains and heating your buildings during the long winter months. You need to be inventive and improve your entire energy system.

YOUR REGION

Your region is located in the centre of Europe and could become a real centre for economics and technology. It has plenty of woodland and therefore an abundance of green power, but your region is lacking in training centres for young people. As a result, unemployment is high and not many companies set up in business there. It's up to you to reverse this trend!

YOUR REGION

Your region is located in highland areas with a lot of exposure to the winds. This allows you to be innovative and install numerous wind farms which provide you with enough energy so that you can sell some of it. However, money isn't everything! For the wellbeing of your inhabitants, you need to develop better means of communication and cultural exchange.

YOUR OBJECTIVES

YOUR REGION

One of the biggest cities in Europe is in the centre of your region. Every day, hundreds of thousands of people travel in and out of the city for work. All this traffic causes endless traffic jams and a lot of atmospheric pollution. You need to develop alternative means of transport that are faster and less harmful as a matter of urgency.

YOUR REGION

Your region has undergone major urban development. Your population is expanding rapidly. You have therefore had to build a lot of housing estates on farmland, which means that you have to import food which is expensive. You now need to dedicate space to local farmers and invent high-performance, environmentally-friendly agricultural equipment.

YOUR REGION

Your region is the place to be for all of Europe's celebrities. Singers, actors, businesspeople... Everyone comes to your door. The only problem is that while you've been artificially embellishing your region for photos in magazines, you have neglected your population and they're starting to grumble. You need to take the management of your region back in hand.

YOUR REGION

Your region is famous for its wide, fertile plains which are good for growing multiple different cereals. You have much more than you need to feed your population. You will therefore need to train inventors and carry out a lot of research to transform these plants into biofuel. This invention will transform your image in Europe.

Your region is at the cutting edge in terms of production of green energy and respect for nature. Multiple factories transform their waste into energy. A lot of workers from several other European countries have come to work for you. However, all these people have different cultures and languages. You will need to make sure that everyone integrates in your region.

Your region is an island where fishermen and lighthouse keepers used to live. Nowadays, the lighthouses are automated and the fishing isn't very good any more. Little by little, the island is emptying; it's just people from the continent who go there for their holidays. To keep young people on the island, they need to be given reasons to want to stay – by developing employment, schools and efficient public services.
